

The Media Studies Department supports the principles and guidelines contained within the Tring School Home Learning Policy.

Media is a vocational subject and as such requires a commitment from every pupil to complete a range of tasks and projects in their own time and to tight deadlines. Work has to be completed at home on a regular basis and is often submitted as part of each assignment.

Work may include research, scripting, storyboarding and filming. It is vital that individual work is completed on time as pupils often work in groups and are reliant on each other for particular tasks.